Trip lightly over sorrow,
Though all the days be dark,
The sun may shine to-morrow
And gayly sing the lark.
Fair Hope has not departed,
Though roses may have fled;
Then never be down-hearted,
But look for joy instead.

Trip lightly over sadness,
Stand not to rail at doom;
We've pearls to string of gladness
On this side of the tomb.
Whilst stars are nightly shining,
And heaven is overhead,
Encourage not repining,
But look for joy instead.

A Memorable Document.

The following is a copy of the most memorable judicial sentence which has ever been pronounced in the annals of the world—namely, that of death against the Saviour with the remarks which the journal Troit has collected, and the knowledge of which must be interesting to every Christian. Until now we are not aware that it has ever appeared in the German papers. It is word for word as follows:

Sentence prouounced by Pontius Pilate intendant of the Lower Province of Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death by the cross.

death by the cross.

In the seventeenth year of the reign of Emperor Tiberius, and on the twenty-fourth day of the month of March, in the holy city of Jerusalem, the pontificate of Annas Caiaphus

Pontius Pilate, the intendent of the lower Galilee, sitting to judgement in the presidential seat of Prætor, sentenced Jecus of Nazareth to death on the cross, between rebbers, as the numerous and notorious testimonies of the peeple prove:

Spoiling Women's Names. Many, it not a majority, of the names of 800 or 900 girls from the public schools examined for admission to the Normal examined for admission to the Normal college, gives us the impression that they belong to mere household pets rather than to young women who are approaching maturity, and who are engaged in serious work. These girls apparently prefer the nicknames by which they are known in the family circle and to intimate friends and therefore take pains to adopt them in their signatures.

and therefore take pains to adopt them in their signatures.

In so doing the public school girls are not exceptional among our young women, for it is quite the fashion nowadays for them to grow so enamored of their nursery appellations that they cling to them as their fixed and proper names. They may even be offended when they are addressed by their correct names, which they image. by their correct names, which they imag-ine less pretty than these petdiminutives; and some grave, grown up women will put Hattie or Gussie, Mamie or Sallie on their cards as if they were in pinafore

The fashion is American; but our patriotism cannot make us grow fond of it. The nicknames which appear in so large a share of these public school girl's signatures would do very well for pets at a dog show. When they are used to express the affectionate regard of near friends and relatives, they also may be pretty and appropriate, but they look very silly in a formal signature, and surely do not benefit the dignity of womanhood.

We fine, for instance among these 800 names, scores of Minnies or Mamies and only here and there a Mary, a much more euphonious and dignified name. Jane is transformed usually into Jennie, Caroline into Carrie, Ellen into Ella, Elizabeth into Lizzie and Bessie, Katherine into Katie, Martha into Mattie, Margaret into Maggie Anne and Anne into Angerie Anne and Anne into Anne and into Maggie, Anne and Anna into Annies, and Harriet into Hattie. Such absurd names as these appear quite frequently: Chattie, Lidie, Millie, Tillie, Kittie, Rosie, Nettie, Bibbie, Aggie and

The great aim seems to be to manufacture a name which ends in ie, and in accomplishing it the finest appellations for women we have, names renowned in for women we have, names renowned in poetry or history, and of a sweet and melodious sound are chopped up into childish diminutives. They convey an idea of pettiness, and do not belong to girls of dignity and character—girls like these who are going to the Normal college, so many of whom will have their living to earn. And yet these girls think it is pretty to be known by such pet names, and so discard, as ugly and old-fashioned, the names by which they are christened. What would they think to see a collego register which gave the young men's name as Jimmie, Billie, Bobbie, Charlie, Sammie and Dickie?

A DEAD SHOWMAN .- Jim Robinson son of John, scarcely less known than the great showman himself, passed through the city Sunday on his way to his home the city Sunday on his way to his home in Cincinnati, in what was suppose to be a dying condition. His health has been traveling with the advance guard in the hope of mproving it, but recently became so ill that his life was despaired of and it was determined to send him home to die.

When the circus people arrived in the city yesterday evening, a telegram was received announcing the death of Mr. Robinson, at 5 o'clock. He was the second of the three sons of the elder Robinson and a part owner of the show, his father having presented it to him and the two elder brothers. The brothers all left the city last night for Cincinnati to to attend the funeral. In the meantime the show is under the management of Mr. Lowlo,—Charlotte Observer, September 28th.

THE PRESERVATION OF WOOD.—The method of preserving wood by the application of lime, as pursued by M. Svostal, is published in the French journals. He piles the plank in a tank, and puts over all a layer of quick lime, which is 'gradually slaked with water. Timber for mines requires about a week to be thoroughly impregnated, and other wood more or less time according to its thickness. The material acquires a remarkable degree of hardiness on being subjected to this process, and, it is alleged, will never rot. Beechwood has been prepared in this way for hammers and other tools, for iron works, and is said to become as hard as oak without parting become as hard as oak without parting with any of its clasticity or toughness, and to last much longer than when not

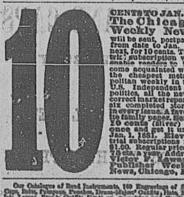

- A writer in the Journal of Science remarks that noise is a contributor to the tear and wear of modern city life to a very grave degree, and wonders why, while a steady war is waged against many other anti-sanitarian agencies, no really serious and persistent attempt has been made for the abolition of superfluous sounds. No complete and satisfac-tory account has yet been given regard-ing the cause of injurious effect of sound in excess upon the nervous system. Nervous irritability and cerebral disease

This fashion is extending among women, and girls are even named with nicknames only, as if they were always to be nothing more than nursery pets. And yet this is a period when women are contending for higher consideration as rational beings and when the range of their occupations outside of the domestic circle is constantly widening and growing in importance.—New York Sun.

A S THE GINNING SEASON is about to commence, it would be to the interest of all

As THE GINNING SEASON is about to commence, it would be to the interest of all who expect to carry on the Ginning business to be careful in the selection of the best machine. It was our object when we started the Gin business; to sell the best Gin made in the United States, and we claim that we have succeeded.

Our PRATT GIN is equal to all, and far superior to many Gins now being offered for sale. We never make a sale without a guarantee of perfect satisfaction, and claim nothing for the Gin that we cannot fully substantiate.

As we are engaged largely in Cotton Buying, as well as the General Merchandise business, it is to our interest that every Ginner should use the best Gin. We have bought the past season about 4000 belies of Cotton which was gluned on the Pratt Gin, and in every instance it brought the highest prices.

From the many certificates in our possession we are gratified with the results, and refer you to the following named gentlemen, who are now using the PRATT GIN, and abide their decision:—
